

Porters Aluminium and Glass, Mackay

Client: Charles Porter & Sons Pty Ltd

Construction completed: October 2005

Construction costs: $2.36 million

The new factory houses Porters powder coating and assembly operations with attached administration building. The roof framing varied from what is considered typical construction. It incorporated Hynebeams spanning the full width of the building floor with no internal supports. The beams were delivered in two sections and were preassembled on the ground before lifting into place in one piece. A strong team environment was created and remained throughout the course of the project and is a great example of what can be achieved when a client, principal contractor, and subcontractors work together.

Client Comment: "Woollam Constructions have carried out a number of our projects over the years. They have consistently delivered quality outcomes and have always met the target completion dates. As a major company in the Mackay district, we take comfort in the fact that Woollam's share the same local values regarding employment and purchasing. Whilst we consider Woollam's to be the "nice guys" of the building industry, we certainly see them as market leaders in the industry and in our opinion are capable of building anything and everything."
